

Hi Everyone:

Hope everyone is having a good summer!

Looking at setting up a Training day next month if possible. I have to find the appropriate property first. If anyone has any idea's let me know.

Fall Hunt Test: Keith Winch has been working on the fall test. He has secured the judges for the test and will now also be looking for help for the field as well as gunners. We will need someone to transport the trailer to the site on Friday August 22nd. Our fall test will be in August at Stillroven Farms and has been opened for entries. The club has already hit our limit for master at 60 dogs last I looked on entry express. Please let Dennis Long (Head Marshal), Keith Winch (Chairman) or myself (Helper) know if you would be able to help at the test - even if it is only for half a day. CFRC will also be having a raffle at the test, so if you would like to donate to the raffle please bring to the test Saturday or Sunday so it can be displayed. Raffles are always a great source to help reduce some of the costs associated with the test.

I received an email and our club has been asked by Bass Pro to host a booth for the upcoming Fall Hunting Classic on the weekend of August 16 or August 17, 2014 from approximately 11am to 5PM, either day would work. They would like for us to host a demo as well during that time. I have forwarded the request to the board. It has been fun in the past, kind of short notice but I think it could be done. Would have to have members of the club sign up for shifts probably do 2 three-hour shifts and if possible have one of the members during those shifts do a demo. It would be fun to show the different ages, we could do Junior, Senior and Master levels. Let me know if you might be interested in helping out with the booth.

Congratulations to everyone that has been running their dogs and bringing "Orange" home on the dashboard. Also, to those earning their "Title's" this summer.

Happy Training and please do not hesitate to contact me with any questions,

Gabriele
President, CFRC

HEATSTROKE

Dogs Naturally magazine published these reminders.

Heatstroke is defined as having a temperature of 105F (or higher), excessive panting, hyperventilation, increased salivation, dry gums that become pale, grayish and tacking, rapid or erratic pulse, weakness, confusion, inattention, vomiting, diarrhea and possible rectal bleeding.

If you think your dog is suffering from heatstroke, you should:

- Get the dog into the shade
- Apply cool (not cold) water to the inner thighs, stomach and foot pads
- Use running water; do not submerge your dog as this could cool the dog too rapidly
- Don't cover the dog
- Keep the dog moving slowly
- Offer small amounts of cool water to drink, no performance drinks!
- Get to your vet who will check for kidney and/or liver damage and DIC (disseminated intravascular coagulopathy) which can occur hours or days later.
